

CNA | RUSSIA STUDIES PROGRAM

OUR WORK

CNA's work on Russia goes back to studies done on Soviet Naval doctrine in the 1960s. This portfolio has expanded to include work on Russian military modernization, strategy, operations, decision-making, and the Russian way of war. The Russia Studies Program (RSP) includes native speaking Russia analysts with deep knowledge on operational and strategic level issues. Over the last few years, RSP has supported sponsors in a variety of ways, including studies (both at the unclassified and classified levels), workshops, conferences, and games.

The Russia Studies Program is part of CNA's Strategy, Policy, Plans, and Programs Division. The Strategy, Policy, Plans, and Programs (SP3) division leverages social science methodologies, field research, regional expertise, primary language skills, Track 1.5 partnerships, and policy and operational experience to support senior decision-makers. The division's work is aligned with the National Defense Strategy and has regularly informed decisions critical to national security.

RSP'S CORE COMPETENCIES ON RUSSIA

- ▶ Naval Capabilities, Operations, and Strategy
- ▶ Strategic Calculus and Operational Decision-Making
- ▶ Escalation Management, Deterrence, and Coercion
- ▶ Russian Combat Operations
- ▶ Military Reforms and Defense Modernization Programs
- ▶ Information Operations and Cyber Strategy
- ▶ Nuclear Strategy, Advanced Weapons, and Operational Concepts

Dedicated to the Safety and Security of the Nation

For more information, visit
WWW.CNA.ORG